Dear Mr. [redacted].

Thank you for your letter of 16 July to the Director, who is now on an extended trip, and for your efforts in bringing [redacted] to our attention.

After a thorough study of the [redacted] proposal by members of our staff, it was concluded that it is not feasible to implement it at this time. I am pleased to say, however, that we can use the services of the [redacted] in other matters which relate to his special qualifications and have offered him employment for at least a year in that capacity. He expressed pleasure with this arrangement and indicated that he will accept our offer. Thus, I feel that this has worked out to everyone's satisfaction.
